Peyton Cumbie named 'Ruritan of the Year'

Peyton Cumbie was recently selected Spout Spring Ruritan Club's "Ruritan Of The Year." Joe Fuller, Ruritan Club member, presented a plaque to Cumbie in recognition of this achievement.

The award is based on services rendered to the community and to the club. In presenting the award to Cumbie, Fuller noted that Cumbie had given many hours of his time to the club's various projects in 1984. In addition, he had given many hours in community service in the Spout Spring, Appomattox County area.

"This type of dedication and hard work deserves special recognition," Fuller said. "Since many of our members give a lot of time and effort to the club and community, one must be outstanding to be chosen for this award," Fuller added.

The award was presented during the Spout Spring Ruritan Club's annual ladies night Christmas dinner held on Dec. 1, 1984 at the Heritage Inn. At this meeting the wives of the club members were guests for dinner and each of the wives was presented with a Christmas gift in recognition of their help and support of the Ruritans in their various projects. The dinner and gifts were a way of saying "Thank you".

Among the projects of the club during 1984 were supporting and donating to the Appomattox County Christmas Mother Program in Appomattox County; the Appomattox County Volunteer Rescue Squad and offering help and support to the Anti-Cold Homes Program in Appomattox County.

Plans were finalized to take a group of underprivileged children from the community on a Christmas shopping trip on Dec. 15.

Santa will visit AFS&L

Parents are invited to bring their children by for a visit.

According to students

Constitution still serves country well

The mechanics of government that were written into the Constitution almost 200 years ago are still serving the country well, in the judgment of some 225 Southside Virginia high school students.

The students, from high schools in Amelia, Appomattox, Buckingham, Cumberland, Lunenburg, Nottoway, and Prince Edward Couties, participated in a Jeffersonian Meeting on the Constitution at Longwood College on Nov. 28.

Participants from Appomattox County High School were Tim Austin, Roy Brennen, Jeff Hawley, Paige Jones, Robert Taylor, Heather Williams, Troy Woods, Kris Winters, and Gary Covington.

The students were divided into groups to discuss three questions: Should the president of the U.S. serve a single six-year term?; Should Supreme Court justices serve set terms (10 years, for example) and then be subject to reappointment by the President and reconfirmation by the Senate?; and Should the term of members of the House of Representatives be lengthened to four years and tenure limited to three years?.

Following the discussion period, all of the students met in general session and the three questions were debated. Four students spoke on the "pro" side of each question, and four spoke on the negative side of each. Then all of the students voted on the questions.

The idea of a single six-year term for president was overwhelmingly defeated after convincing argument that the four-year term make the president "more accountable to the people."

The setting of terms of office for Supreme Court justices (instead of having them serve for life) also was defeated by a sizable majority. The opposing team argued, again convincingly, that setting terms for these interpreters of Constitutional law would make them too "politically influenceable" and would limit the ability of the judiciary to serve as a check on the other two branches of government.

The vote was closer on the length of term for members of the House of Reprentatives, but those in favor of the "status quo" won again. Their major argument was that these legislators, in particular, need to be "very close to what the people want." The requirement that they be re-elected every two years makes it imperative that they maintain close contact with their constituencies.

The Jeffersonian Meeting was sponsored by Longwood's department of history and government and directed by Dr. Nancy Anderson, of the speech department.

DAR members honor Nettie Moses Dresser Martin with grave marker

Members of the Red Hill Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution placed a bronze DAR marker on the grave of Nettie Moses Dresser Martin at Liberty Cemetery in Appomattox on Nov. 10.

Mrs. Martin, a descendant of Captain Jacob Woodson of Prince Edward County Militia, American Revolution, was an organizing member of Red Hill Chapter.

Family members, friends and several members of Blue Ridge Chapter DAR joined Red Hill members in honoring Mrs. Martin who died in November 1977.

The official ritual ceremony was conducted by Mrs. Jack Poindexter, regent of Red Hill Chapter, and Mrs. Ashby Scott, chaplain. Mrs. W.R. Herndon, Jr. responded for the family with a personal tribute.

Following the marker ceremony, Mrs. Poindexter presided at the regular November meeting held at the home of Mrs. Charles F. F. Crawley in Appomattox. Hostesses assisting Mrs. Crawley were Mrs. H. Webster Babcock, Miss Janet Moses, Mrs. Ernest Bowling and Mrs. Ernest Talbert.

Mrs. Ronnie Cox read the November message from Mrs. Walter Hughey King, President General, NSDAR.

The National Defense program, "Duty, Honor, Country" was presented by Mrs. Vincent Lazardi. The program honored all veterans but centered on Nathan Hale, the Revolutionary soldier who gave his life for his country. His last words, before being hanged by the British, have been an inspiration to Americans since September 1776 when he said, "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country."

Mrs. Lazardi reviewed a speech, "Nathan Hale's Vision", which was given by the Honorable William E. Simon at the National Defense Luncheon on April 16, 1984 at the NSDAR Continental Congress. In his speech, Mr. Simon examined the vision Nathan Hale would have seen of our national history as it extended down the corridors of time, but questioned that he would have comprehended the challenge posed to America in the latter half of the twentieth century to keep our nation strong militarily and economically.
